Focus of presentation...

EMPLOYABILITY....What is it?

How can the College of Nursing, Midwifery and Healthcare (CNMH) help to prepare students to develop their employability skills?

How can CNMH staff work in collaboration with stakeholders in developing appropriate skills of students for future employment

What brings us here?

The Project

Phase 1...current

The aims are to explore the characteristics which are associated with employability as perceived by the stakeholders

To engage stakeholders in the development of employability skills in full partnership

Phase 2 – in progress / future work programme

Stakeholders....

Students

Employers / Education Commissioners

Service Users

Academics

Aspects of note

Noting employability skills in the existing Curriculum

Work placement – what are the issues?

Mentor engagement;
explicit expectations

PDP

Employability is...?

“like any other academic PROCESS needs to persuade people to act through evidence” (Kneale, P 2009)

...not something we should seek at the end, but something we should embed from recruitment, (VBR) retention and career progression

...is a shared responsibility

Findings will provide an evidence base which is established from the engagement of stakeholders

Employability Definitions

Why is employability high on the agenda?

Changing landscape of H&SC demands a different approach

- Diverse and changing society
- Information Technology
- Cultural Issues
- Citizenship
- Patient Participation; Collaborative Co design
- Self care / Family care

Above demands a well trained and multi skilled workforce, achieved in collaboration with all stakeholders identified above

Phase 2....

An exploration and analysis of employability skills for H&SC curriculum as perceived by the stakeholders

Conduct a qualitative study using the Delphi Technique to extrapolate opinion from stakeholders

Employability skills questionnaire / inventory developed to gather data

Thank you for your attention

Your questions are welcomed
